Feature Key Trial Capability in 5.0.x and higher

There is a new feature in 5.0 firmware, which was not widely announced, but could be very useful to some customers: the Feature Key Trial capability. You can find that on the hidden page called "featurestrial.cgi". Administrators can access that page by typing http://<QuadroIP>/featurestrial.cgi in the address bar of the browser.

The page will let you use any Quadro software Feature Key for up to one month for free. That currently includes "Additional IP Lines support", "3pcc license", "Additional G729 Support" and "QCM licenses".

IMPORTANT NOTE: this page can be used only once on each device, so please take the time choosing the features to activate.

Once the trial has expired, the trial feature page will not be accessible. Also, you cannot pause a trial period. All trial features will have to be tested in the 30 day period.

Some other important notes: your system will reboot automatically after expiration at the exact date and time selected during initial activation. After the trial expires, you can purchase the full license keys to continue using the feature in the future.

The main purpose of the feature: the feature is to allow existing customers to test additional features and decide if the feature is a benefit. The trial keys can also be used for demo units and advanced replacement situations for in field failures
